

The children at Dovers Green are Inclusive Individuals

Our motto is 'Reaching Up, Reaching Out.' We want our children to take their place in the world; equipped to reach up in terms of their own aspirational goals, and empowered to reach out to others as global citizens.

Children learn to make connections with each other, their local environment, and the world at large. We celebrate diversity and recognise that 'We are all special, but we are all different.'

The children at Dovers Green are Confident Communicators

We believe that being an effective speaker and listener is essential in empowering the children to better understanding themselves, each other and the world around them. It is the primary aim of our curriculum that children are able to communicate their thoughts, ideas and feelings.

Our Oracy framework, equips children to learn physical, linguistic, cognitive, social, and emotional skills so they gain the tools to be confident and effective communicators.

The children at Dovers Green are Environmental Explorers

Our children are exceptionally fortunate to have access to wonderful outdoor spaces to support their learning, including a Forest School. We encourage the children to engage physically with these spaces across the school day.

Our curriculum fosters a love of nature, an appreciation of environmental issues and an understanding of the role that our children have to play in looking after our planet.

The children at Dovers Green are Life-long Learners

It is our aim that our children are aspirational in everything they do; developing independence, confidence, and resilience - becoming the very best they can. They learn that it is from mistakes that we grow: our 'Marvellous Mistakes' – and that we can respond positively to feedback.

Our curriculum is designed to inspire curiosity and to encourage questions. We want our children to embrace a love of learning – now and throughout their lifetime.
